ANALOG ADVICE IN A DIGITAL WORLD

from the desk of Rick Jones (one of my FAVORITE people!!!)

I don't think anyone loved Waffle House more than my dad did. The Waffle House chain of restaurants, found throughout the southern United States, was actually started by two members of my home church in Avondale Estates, Georgia. My dad gave those guys lots of support over the years, so he knew a lot of Waffle House waitresses ,... and he was kind to each and every one of them.

How you treat those who cannot help you to advance shows the true content of your character. Dad said that anyone can be nice to presidents and popes, but it takes a special person to show respect and kindness to "the little people". He really believed they were not "little" at all but rather that each created value and had value.

It doesn't cost any extra to be nice (unless you're an especially generous tipper). Nice counts. Nice get noticed. Most of all, it's simply the right way to treat people.

But don't forget that tipping counts too!
