HAPPY NEW YEAR!

I want to share with you what the annual Christmas party in Uganda was like with 1,000 children in the auditorium because IT WAS RAINING HARD! In spite of those conditions, the party was a great success: the cakes were certainly loved by one and all and the presents (a new dress for every girl and a new shirt for every boy) were truly appreciated.

Thanks to ALL of you who have consistently made this annual event such a great one at the Mbirizi Advanced Primary and Daycare school in Uganda.

2023 is going to be a great year!

My favorite mantra? Assume you have succeeded. Growing up I lived by “Assume the role, act the part and you become it.” And I don’t know when I crossed over from assuming the role to becoming it but ... that’s not important. What IS important was that I just kept on going-- always assuming that I had reached the goal. This “mantra”, combined with the saying “Obstacles are what you see when you take your eyes off the goal”, leaves you totally prepared for any and all objections or hindrances to your success.

You can make it happen when you believe you can make it happen! 😊
